IPSPC EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

RICHMOND FELLOWSHIP
MAKING RECOVERY REALITY

HOW WE CAN HELP

Richmond Fellowship IPSPC offers one-to-one support for people living with mental ill health or a chronic health condition who are seeking work or need assistance to manage their health in work.

We provide confidential, impartial advice and guidance to help you back into paid employment. If you are currently in work and experiencing a health condition then we can support you and your employer to make plans and find solutions that enable you to retain your employment.

Richmond Fellowship believe through evidence based research that meaningful employment forms the basis of recovery and is recognised as a 'health intervention'.

WHO WE CAN HELP

Our service is available to anyone over the age of 16 who has a health condition and is looking to find paid part or full time employment as part of their recovery or who would like support in retaining their current employment.

You can contact us directly or we can accept referrals from hospitals, GP's and any other agencies or health care providers currently supporting you.

SUPPORT WE OFFER

Our qualified IPS Employment Specialists can support you on a one-to-one basis, providing confidential, impartial advice and guidance to help you to move forward in achieving your employment goals.

Here are just some of the areas we can support you with:

- CV design
- Job searching
- Interview practice and techniques
- In-work advice and guidance
- Job retention support
- Employer liaison support
- And much more!

Once you are referred to our service, you'll be allocated a dedicated Employment Specialist who will work with you to set positive and achievable goals by a individualised support plan.

Your Specialist will not just help you find paid employment but will help you retain your employment if you so wish.

We can work with you and your employer if you consent, to make plans and find solutions that enable you to carry on in work or return to work if you have been off work due to illness and can advise on reasonable adjustments and ways in which an employer can be supporting you.
